> We demand the immediate nationalization of the telegraph and the telephones to be followed by governmental ownership of the railroads and

> We demand the municipal ownership of street railways, gas and electric light plants for the public distribution of light, heat and power.

The land is the heritage of the people: therefore we condemn existing laws which permit the alien ownership of large bodies of land held for speculative purposes and declare in favor of such taxation laws as will compel the using of land to make ownership profitable and also favor

We demand the absolute free coinage of silver at the ratio of 15 to :, and the issuance by the general government of legal-tender notes in sufficient volume to meet the requirements of the increasing business of the country and we unequivocally condemn the policy of issuing interestbearing bonds in the time of peace.

Recognizing education to be the most potent agency for civilization, we favor such laws as will compel the attendance at school of all children of school age.

The interests of the general public demand the passage of such laws as will give adequate protection and relief to the oppressed employes on the railway, in the factory, shop and mine, therefore we demand the following: A legal eight-hour workday; sanitary inspection of workshop, mine and home, liability of employer for injury to health, body or life; the abolition of the contract system in all sweating system; proportional representation; the adoption of the initative and referendum system of legis-

Many Good Features.

Besides being a beautiful procession as a whole, there were many special features in its make-up. The Fire Police appeared at the head in their new uniforms making a splendid appearance, the Light Infantry made a excellent appearance. The Grand Army veterans turned out about fifty strong, and added much to the handsome line. The fire department turned out with all its apparatus, and made a very fine showing. Many Came From Other Towns. Janesville people generally remained at home on the Fourth, very few gcing out of town. This was probably due to the fact that all desired to see and take part in our own celebration, and partly on account of the railway tie-up and the uncertainty of trains | Heath. running on time. "In all my experience in railroading in Janesville, I never saw a Fourth of July when so few people left the city as there were yesterday," said Station Agent Potter of the Northwestern today. Fifty-six saloon licenses were granted by the common council at a evening. Besides the fifty-six saloons eight druggist's permits were granted, making sixty-four places in Janesville where liquors will be dispensed during the year. There were no objections raised to granting licenses. The majority of the council were apparpear Below-None Fare So Well In ently in favor of a higher license fee being charged, but were content to await the action of the high license people in September, when undoubtedly there will be a vote taken to decide the amount to be charged.

Very little other business was considered, the gas lamp at the corner of Dodge and River streets was ordered removed, and the purchasing committee was directed to buy fifty bushels of oats for the fire department.

HARPER'S HISTORY OF THE WAR

Harper's Pictorial History is universally recognized as the best history of the war yet published. This superb work has never been sold for less than $16 to $30. It has been sold only by subscription and but a very few men have been able to buy it.

The pages are the same size as Harper's Weekly and the work contains all the illustrations appearing in that great paper during the war. The work was edited by Richard Grant White and Henry M. Alden and is authentic, complete and reliable.

We have made arrangements whereby we can furnish Gazette subscribers with this splendid history of twentysix parts at ten cents a part. These twenty-six parts wi'l contain over one thousand war pictures and will make two handsome volumes when bound.

Many official documents of priceless historic value are quoted in full in the copious foot notes, such for instance as Lincoln's inauguration speeches, articles of federation of the early states, constitution of the United Sta es, ordinance of tecession, and many important papers, speeches, etc. The war story is consecutive and very fascinating. The introductory chapters, leading up to the struggle, and the chapter on the reconstruction period, are by some of the first writers of the age.

ONE OF LIFE'S MYSTERIES.

Why People Pass Empty Car Seats and Crowd Those Partially Occupied.

"There is one thing that has always been more or less of a mystery to me," said a traveler to a writer for the New York Sun, "and that is the motive that prompts some passengers in a car in which there are entirely vacant seats to take a seat with somebody. In some cases the reason for this is simple enough; it may be that the person takes the first seat he comes to and is satisfied; it may be that the vacant entire seats are at the other end of the car and not seen at a casual glance; sometimes a person unaccustomed to travel rather timidly takes the first seat at hand; but the person that I have in mind is the one who either deliberately, or with what one might call deliberate thoughtlessness, takes a seat with somebody when there are vacant entire seats in plain sight. I have seen, for instance, a man sitting by a window, alone in a seat, in a car in which there was plenty of room, reading. Knowing that there was plenty of groom, he had perhaps sort of pre-empted that seat, and was making himself comfortable in it and was thinking of nothing but his reading. Along comes a rather stout lady, who. though there is more room elsewhere, for some to me utterly incomprehensible reason, decides that she wants to sit in that particular seat. She moves silently. She halts in the aisle at the end of the seat, and slowly moves in so that she can sit down. She says nothing to the man. She does not even look at him; she has not looked at him since the moment that she decided to take that seat, and he is as yet unconscious of her presence. Looking straight ahead with great calmness she sits down deliberately. Then the man looks around with a pained sort of lock. He moves closer to the window and goes on reading, but he won't regain his inward composure for an hour. Now why the lady should have taken that particular seat is one of the things that I don't understand."

UNIQUE TITLES

That Were Formerly Given Men in the Navy.

The term quartermaster, as used in both the army and navy, appears to be confusing and anomalous. In the army it is the title of a commissioned officer, who performs important and responsible duties. In the navy he is simply a warrant officer, directing subordinate duties, says Chamber's Journal. In old ships and under former arrangements his position was a more important one, so much so that he was considered a fourth part of the master; hence the term quartermaster, being principally engaged in assisting him in the navigation of the ship. Even at the present day they have charge of the steering gear and the men at

Other terms accentuate the fact of the original military predominance on board our war ships in early days. One of these still exists under the title of captain. There are captains of the quarterdeck, forecastle, foretop, hold, maintop, mainmast, mizzenmast, mizzentop, &c. The ship's cook was once a great man on board ship; and there are instances on record of his being promoted for efficient preparation of food.

Up to the reign of Charles II, the most inferior ratings on a man of war were those of "swabber"--that is, one of those who swabbed or mopped up the inside of the ship-the other being the "liar," who held the lowest of all, as he was not permitted to meddle with the inside of the ship on any pretense whatever. Another old-time official existed, the caterer, now known as the "ship's steward, who looked after the division and issue of the men's food.

Printing Placards Only.

There is a printing office in Vienna the sole employment of which is the announcement of fetes, plays, concerts, etc., nothing else being printed but placards. The proprietor of the establishment has many persons in his service who thoroughly understand the most striking way of announcing such matters to the street public by unique arrangement of alluring words. The monster types are all wood; the effect of the great colored letters upon men's eyes and fancies is always speculated upon. In the pictorial announcements of estates for sale the letters are often composed of pictures of castles and rural views, the effect of which is very "catchy" and sure to please the eye.

A gentleman, in speaking of the commonness of the proper names of "Jones" and "Smith," told this story: "I once attended a camp meeting in one of the rural districts of Kentucky. One day as I was walking from the spring to the camp I met a strange gentleman who offered me his hand. 'I am glad to see you, Mr. Jones,' said he. 'I suppose you are mistaken,' said I. 'I reckon not,' said my new friend. I am a stranger here, but the man who brought me over here said that every other man I met would be a Jones.' 'Well?' 'Well, the last one was Mr. Smith.

BRANDS COULDN'T BEAT THEM BELOIT VERY DEAD Athletics Wind Up Their Chicago Visitors In Short Order.

It was a lucky thing for Janesville that they landed four runs in the first inning of the morning game yesterday or the score would have been different. After that the Chicagos played a fast game. Brothers started in to pitch for the home team but the first man got a base on a ball, the next got hit in the neck and when Santer had three balls and no strikes. Mor issy put McGinley in and he sent the batter and Possel to base on ball forcing in a run the visitors got two more in the fourth on Nicholson's two bagger. Doran's was a stolen base and Dillon's single. The home team scored four in the first by Birmingham's base on ball, error by Mehrle and Nicholson. Garterrich's slow throw to catch Dixon at the plate and a wild pitch. Morrissey went to first in the third on a single was forced to second on Doran's base on ball, to third on a pass ball and came home on Connor's fly to right. John Wilbur got the last mark in the fifth on a single, Mehrle's error and Robert's hit. The game was called at the end of six innings. Summary:

Violetta's lovely face had been slashed into atoms and the torn shreds of the canvas dangled from the easel in a manner that nearly drove him into frenzy.

Experience of a Suburbanite With a Book Agent.

A suburban resident whose home is on a height far above his railway station, and approachable by a moderately short, steep path and a long roundabout road, fell in with a book agent the other day, according to the New York Sun. The suburbanite was just hastening off in his carjured, some fatally. Following are riage to the station, but the book agent nailed him with his glittering eye and sold his book for $5. The suburbanite traveled down to New York with his book in his hand, found it extremely dull, and left it at his office. On reaching home he was saluted by his wife with the announcement that she had paid for the book, as he desired. It was the same book, the agent having watched his victim depart, and deceived the wife by the story that her husband had bought the book and desired her to pay for it. "If I had him here I'd kick him," said the suburbanite, and then his wife exclaimed: "Why, there he is walking down the path to the station."

Then that man hastened out of his slippers and into his shoes, meaning to pursue the agent. But a neighbor drove up at that moment and was asked to drive down to the station and stop the stranger. Off went the neighbor like a shot, and halted the man just as he was about to board the train. "That man up cars fell in a gully. far as known there on the bluff wants—" said the obliging neighbor. "Oh, yes; he wants one of my books," said the agent. "Do you mind taking it for paid, and the neighbor hurried back that's keeping me so late."-Chicago first regular passenger train was run with the prize. "Here's your book," he cried, holding it aloft, "and I've paid the $5," and the suburbanite realized with wrath that he had three copies of a dull book that he did not want.

> Soap Stilled the Stormy Seas. During a late storm in the Adriatic Captain Gall of the steamship Senegal, Massageries Francasis, made an experiment of the effect of soapy water in arresting the fury of the waves. He dissolved six pounds of soap in seventy quarts of water, and poured the mixture on some unraveled ropes, down which it ran slowly into the sea. In this way a zone of smooth soapy water was formed around the steamer of about forty feet in extent, against which the waves broke without being able to reach the steamer. This was while the vessel was lying to, but when she began to move the zone of quiet water moved with her until the engine had made forty-five revolutions. - London News.

Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force. which they supply with nerve force. *
Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derange-ment primarily originating in the organ it-self. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which organ rather than the herve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

DR. FRANKLIN MILES, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 20 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among them being the facts contained in the above that the contained in the above that the contained in the contained in the contained in the above that the contained in them being the facts contained in the above statement, and that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion, pressure, blues, mania, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. Militiamen Reach Ironwood.

IRONWOOD, Mich., July 5.-Three companies of the national guard arrived by special train last night from Calumet, Houghton, and Marquette. Three hundred and fifty men are now under arms and it is believed these, with the Menominee company, which is expected to arrive soon, will be able to restrain the striking Gogebic miners from further acts of violence. The strikers number fully 1,000 men and clashes between them and the militia can only be avoided by much diplo-

Soldiers Still in Decatur.

DECATUR, Ill., July 5. - The military is still at Decatur, though efforts are being made to have them removed. Sheriff Perl wants the soldiers to stay and so do the Wabash officials, who claim they would be unable to do any-thing without them. The Wabash yards are now clear of blockaded passenger trains. The strikers are still determined and have lost none of their men. At a mass meeting they prepared an address to the public declaring this was a fight for living wages.
